FUMIGATION USELESS.

A FLORIDA MAN'S OPINION OF THE YELLOW FEVER SCOURGE.

He Believes the Epidemic was Caused by Not Burning the Infected Articles of Last Year—People Who Live Temperate Lives not in Great Danger.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—D. G. Ambler, president of the National state bank of Florida, and the head of the most prominent banking house in Jacksonville, is at the Grand hotel. His theory of the origin of the yellow fever epidemic, and of how it might have been prevented, as well as his criticism of the action of certain members of the state legislature in considering the relief bill, are of more than ordinary interest.

"There have been some exaggerated stories sent from Florida concerning the fever," said Mr. Ambler, "and the statement that negroes in organized bands are breaking into stores and dwellings is without foundation in fact. The white people would not tolerate such a state of affairs for twenty-four hours. Business is, of course, affected, and people have been leaving the town by secluded routes, but thus far credits have not been affected to any alarming extent."

"The fever is, I think, directly traceable to the failure to destroy all infected clothes and infected buildings that spread the disease in 1887. Experience has shown that fumigation is useless. The germs of the disease cannot be destroyed by that means. Whatever is infected must be burned and completely destroyed, and the people living in that district understand this very thoroughly. But just here is where the trouble comes in. You cannot destroy property, especially the property of a poor man, unless you compensate him for the loss, and when you do not compensate him you offer him an incentive for concealment. Beds and bedding, even after being used in his family in a fever sickness, represent a certain value, and if his family have recovered he sees no reason why this property should be destroyed."

"The appropriations made thus far by congress do not contemplate such payment. The money is used for the maintenance of quarantine camps and kindred purposes. It is to be deplored that in the consideration of this important matter, partisan feeling should have been exhibited. Senators Call and Pascoe, when the appropriation of $200,000 came up for consideration the other day, were anxious to have an amendment made to the bill providing for the setting aside of a specific portion of this amount for the payment of damages arising from the destruction of property by direction of the health authorities. Surgeon General Hamilton, of the marine corps, took the same view, and was anxious to see the amendment pass, but it was defeated. Although it is claimed that a part of the money will be used for this purpose, the bill goes to the secretary of the treasury with the record of the yes and nay vote attached to it."

"The fever this year originated in a small hamlet called Mantee. There are probably fifteen houses in it. Twenty thousand dollars, or perhaps even $10,000, would have bought all of them and all they contained. Had they been swept out of existence the fever would not have spread over an area of fifty miles as it did. Placing a cordon about a town amounts to nothing. It would take an army to keep people isolated. They will not stand it, and if you undertake to forcibly destroy their property and not pay them damages, serious trouble is bound to occur."

"As to the virulence of the disease in and about Jacksonville," continued Mr. Ambler, "I want to say one thing. People who live fairly temperate lives do not stand in any great danger. Out of eighty cases there were eight deaths, and of those eight four were persons who were addicted to the excessive use of alcoholic liquor and who exposed themselves injudiciously. We will have it all stamped out before October, I think, and if the plan of destroying the germs by fire can be carried out vigorously, I think we can prevent a recurrence of the disease. This payment for damages cannot be done by the state nor by the county. It must be done by the Federal government. It is to be greatly regretted that politics should in any way have a connection with something that affects the health and consequent prosperity of a community."

There were seven new cases and two deaths Sunday, at Jacksonville.

Strike on the P. D. & E.

MATTOON, Ill., Aug. 28.—The threatened strike of engineers and firemen of the Peoria, Decatur & Evansville railway took place at 3 p. m. Sunday, when all train crews had reached the ends of their runs in this city or the terminals of the lines. The yard crew in this city left a cut of cars where they were at work, ran the engine into the roundhouse and declared the strike on. An excursion train followed by a freight, for Evansville, were the only trains which left this city Sunday. One hundred and fifty excursionists are left in Evansville, and not a train is moving on the line.

LATER.—The strikers have all returned to work at the company's terms.

National Prohib. Headquarters.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The National Prohibition headquarters at Fifth avenue and Fourteenth street was formally opened this morning. There will be a conference of the Prohibition leaders there to-morrow, in which Gen. Clinton B. Fisk will take part. The National headquarters of the party has heretofore been at Chicago.

A Philadelphia Politician Succeeded.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—Ex-Representative John McCullough, a prominent Republican politician of this city, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head at his residence in this city early Sunday morning. Domestic trouble is thought to have led McCullough to commit the deed.

A Stock Train Wrecked.

MINOT, Dak., Aug. 28.—A stock train coming east ran into a herd of cattle near Fort Buford Sunday morning, about 10 o'clock, ditching seventeen cars of stock and killing thirty-five head. Brakeman Jones and a carpenter are reported as being fatally injured.

THE MESSAGE.

No Quorum of the Committee on Foreign Affairs—Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The house committee on foreign affairs met according to order, to consider the president's message on the fishery treaty. Only six members responded to the roll call, namely: Messrs. McCreary, Hooker, Norwood, Rockwell, Morrow and Hitt.

As no quorum appeared, no effort was made to any transaction any business and the proceedings were confined to an informal discussion, which was mainly interesting from the fact that it revealed a strong disposition on the part of the three Democratic and the three Republican members present to divide on party lines. This discussion related to Article 25 of the treaty of Washington, with the legislation that has been enacted touching entries of goods in bond at United States ports for Canadian consumption.

The president's message and accompanying documents were not at hand when the committee met, and it is possible that several days will be consumed in preliminary discussion before the point of action is reached. Chairman Belmont sent a telegram from Bar Harbor, which was read to the committee present, as follows: "I will certainly return to take part in the consideration by the committee of the retaliation bill. I can not reach Washington Monday, but if there is an adjourned meeting I will be present."

The impression prevails that the majority will agree to report the bill of Mr. Wilson, of Minnesota, with favorable recommendation and that it will lead to a prolonged debate in the house.

Grover Gives $10,000.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—President Cleveland has contributed his check for $10,000 to the Democratic campaign fund and his cabinet officers have also given good sums to the same object. It is said that the personal friends of the president have given altogether $150,000 to help carry on the campaign. W. C. Whitney, the secretary of the navy, headed the list, followed by Chairman Burnham, Herman Oelrichs, Secretary Endicott, Secretary Fairchild, Pat. Kelly, of Minnesota; Postmaster General Dickinson, Oliver Payne and others. Mr. Scott, of Erie, contributed to the canvass $20,000, and the contribution of Chairman Brice exceeds even that sum.

Official Duties Prevent It.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—President Cleveland will not accept the invitation to attend the Grangers' interstate picnic and exhibition at Williams Grove, Pa. Representative William L. Scott will be present. The committee of Pennsylvania congressmen that waited on the president were not given a definite answer, but were informed that the official duties devolving upon Mr. Cleveland gave no promise of his being able to accept the invitation.

Free Delivery at Findlay, Ohio.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—After persistent effort on the part of Judge Seney for several months past, the postmaster general has decided to establish the free delivery system at Findlay, O. The order will go into effect on September 1.

JAY GOULD INTERVIEWED.

He Anticipates a Good Season for Railroads—His Opinion of Politics.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Jay Gould was interviewed before leaving here Saturday. He said he anticipated a good season for the railroads, on account of the good crops.

"I regard the decision of Judge Brewer, in the United States circuit court, of greater importance to the railroads than a good crop, in any single year," Mr. Gould continued. "I mean the decision restraining the state railroad commissioners from putting in a force the schedule of traffic rates prepared by them. The people of the west have the railroads, but have no ownership in them. That securities of the corporations are mostly held in the east and Europe is an unfortunate condition of affairs. Had the tendency of legislation not been checked by the courts railroad stocks and bonds would have been in a fair way to lose their investment value."

"I apprehend no serious injury to the business interests of the country no matter which political party wins," was Mr. Gould's answer to a question on that point. "It is always claimed in political campaigns by each party that the success of the opposition means destruction to the industries of the country, but I notice that after election everything goes on nicely. Now I believe, for instance, that free wool will benefit rather than injure our manufacturers engaged in that branch of industry, for it will give them, free of duty, the raw material from England and Austria, where the quality is very fine, to mix with the commoner grade grown here. If the wool imported were of equal grade with ours the effect might be different; but it is much superior. Yes, I think everything will go along prosperously after the first week of next November."

Sporting Notes.

Johnny Reagan says that he is anxious to tackle Jack Dempsey in a finish fight. The steamer Eurulia has reached New York with the pugilist Jake Kilrain as one of her passengers.

Joe Quinn, of the Des Moines club, has been purchased by Boston, and will play second base for the Hub nine.

The Monmouth Park races have closed after a successful meeting. Prizes to the amount of $305,334 were given.

The big centennial bird shoot will take place at Cincinnati September 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, 2,500 live birds are on hand for the sport.

At Butte, Mont., Sunday night, Tally Owens won a fight from Jerry Slattery, the champion of Colorado, in nine rounds, on a foul. Both men were badly punished.

Mike Conley, the Ithaca giant, has challenged Jake Kilrain for a fight to a finish for $1,500 a side. Jem Smith and Joe McAuliffe have virtually refused to meet Conley.

President Stern is quoted as saying that he would join the League next year if Cincinnati win the Association championship and the pick of the Indianapolis team be given him.

THE CURRENT OPINION

IN EUROPE UNDOUBTEDLY TENDING WARWARD.

Bismarck Urging Italy On—French Comments on the Recent Interviews—The Persian Shah to Make a Tour of Europe.

Trouble Brewing in Brazil—Foreign.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—There is undoubtedly a strong current of opinion tending toward war. Its central idea is that Bismarck is trying to force a war upon France, and for that purpose is using Italy as his tool. A semi-official statement in Saturday evening's issue of the National Zeitung is one of the straws on the current. It says: "The time has come when Italy must mark out precisely the limits of her foreign policy. If the Italian government finds it necessary to attack France, Germany must support her ally."

The impression becomes stronger that the visit of Emperor William to the czar was not the mere exchange of courtesies which has been persistently reported, but that an understanding of some sort has been arrived at, enabling the hands of Germany free, enables her to pursue a provocative policy against France in concert with Italy.

This idea is strengthened by the fear, which amounts to a belief in London, that by an understanding with William the czar is about to stir up troubles for England on the borders of India, in fact that she is doing so. The Tibetans have invaded Sikkim and a conflict is certain. It has been long preparing, and meanwhile Russia has organized nominally a scientific expedition, under the command of Gen. Prejevalsky, which however, has the proportions of an invading horde, and is bound for Lhasa, the capital of Tibet.

Indeed, it has been long thought that Russian agents were stirring up the Tibetans to invade Sikkim, which the Tibetans claim as their own. It is thought that Russia aims at thus badgering England on her Indian borders, and in fact endangering her dominion of India, to force her to submit to Russia's demands in regard to Bulgaria, as Germany has professed herself willing to do. This, it is thought, would isolate Austria, give Russia her way to a certain limit and so avoid war. Of one thing there is no doubt, a great diplomatic game of some sort is being played.

The Shah of Persia.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Not to be outdone by the European monarchs, whose junketing trips from time to time attract the attention of the world, and exhaust the category of plausible reasons for their undertaking, the shah of Persia again announces his intention of favoring the continent with his presence and presumably astounding his hosts with some new oriental method of expressing his appreciation of their hospitality. His last visit to Europe is still fresh in the minds of his entertainers, most of whom were compelled to refurbish the apartments he occupied as soon as he vacated them, and his second coming must be looked forward to with dread by the sufferers from his first visit. It is surmised, however, that the king of kings has weightier reasons than mere pleasure for again crossing his native sands and submitting himself to the to him, barbarous customs of the western nations.

The Russian expedition to Tibet is shrewdly suspected by continental diplomats to be the forerunner of another attempt on the part of the czar to occupy Afghanistan, and perhaps a part of Persia if such occupation showed seem to be necessary, and it is considered not unlikely that the purpose of the shah's visit to Europe is either to effect the best possible terms with the czar or to secure the support of some European power in opposing him. The former, however, is regarded as the most probable, as the shah has every reason in the world to seek the friendship of the czar, and none to incur his enmity, while not even the monarch of Persia can be so ignorant of the present state of European affairs as to imagine that any continental power would deliberately array itself against Russia for ten fold the advantages that Nassr-Ed-Deen could offer. Of course, no one can say certainly until the visit is made what has induced the shah to undertake it, but are the best of reasons for believing that he will not repeat his former unclean performances in any of the cities he may visit.

French Press Comments.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—The interviews between the Italian Minister Crispi and Bismarck and Kalnoky in their turn, has concentrated upon Crispi and Bismarck the fire of the French press. A writer in Whist says of Crispi: "Incoherence and tactlessness have marked all the recent policy of Crispi. He makes diplomacy a sport, and lives on it; may he die of it."

A writer in the Republican calls Crispi a yelping dog, whose bark France does not regard, and says: "If Bismarck thinks the time has come to fight us let him say so; but don't let him hound on his Tiszas and Crispi. We don't understand their barks."

The most significant statement, however, is made in the Journal Matin, which says: "German unity is a monstrosity which enfeebled Europe, has endured too long, and in the end she would break it. Germany knows that well, hence war is inevitable. Can anyone believe that Europe, which refused to submit the sanguinary but splendid glory of the first Napoleon, will bow forever beneath the weight of the German ferule, and go on ruining itself in armaments because two men, William I. and Bismarck, have thought fit to build up a German empire for the benefit of the Prussian monarchy? But, we repeat, France will not declare war. Public opinion is unanimous on that point."

Big Fire in Hamburg.

HAMBURG, Aug. 28.—Fire started this morning in Heinward, the southern part of this city on the other side of the river. The flames spread rapidly and warehouses and other buildings for a quarter of a mile on the river side were burned. The shipping in the docks has mostly pulled out, but several vessels have been destroyed. It was at one time feared that the flames would cross the river, through the shipping, and communicate with the vessels in the docks here, in which case the destruction of property would be immense. But the hauling out of vessels in the Heinward docks and a change of wind averted the danger. The efforts of firemen were confined to preventing the spread of flames to houses on the terraces above the river side. The loss of property on the docks and among the shipping is immense.

Six persons have lost their lives by the flames. The fire has destroyed seven warehouses at Steinward, containing a large amount of cotton, rice, sugar and salt petre. The loss is estimated at 7,000,000 marks.

Revolution Pending in Brazil.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Consul Manton, who for nineteen years has been consul at Collonia, Uruguay, in an interview said that the recent emancipation of slaves by Brazil was simply a sop to a large number of the southern provinces of the empire.

The inhabitants of these provinces, he said, are ripe for a revolution, and it is likely that as soon Dom Pedro dies a concerted effort will be made to overthrow the throne and declare a republic in Brazil.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President,
GROVER CLEVELAND,
 of New York.

For Vice President,
ALLAN G. THURMAN,
 of Ohio.

If the people of this country desire a just and instructive illustration of the policy of protection they can find it in that long-tried system of narrow exclusion and restriction which has brought down on the Chinese the execration of mankind. The protection the Republicans have given is patterned after it.

The Democrats of the First district at Cincinnati are making strenuous efforts to induce Dr. W. W. Dawson to run for Congress. Dr. Dawson is well known in Maysville. At home he is very popular. When he ran for member of the School Board a few years ago he got 3,700 majority, although the rest of the ticket was defeated by 5,000 votes.

The contest between C. R. Brooks and B. F. Day for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Tenth district resulted in a victory for Day, of Mt. Sterling, on the thirty-eighth ballot. The nominee was formerly Judge of Menifee County, and has served several terms in the Legislature. Mr. Brooks, whom he defeated, is a brother of Mr. S. R. Brooks, recently of this city.

The Democrats are the defenders of American industry. They alone offer it protection; they seek alone the independence and aggrandizement of domestic labor by liberating it from unnatural restraints and allowing it the undisturbed possession and complete enjoyment of its own earnings.

On the other hand the Republicans offer it a monopolized market in which to buy the necessities of life, and a labor market subject to the caprices of trusts. In short they promise it the inestimable boon of working in the protected industries where no share of the bounty alleged protection affords is allotted to labor, and of bearing in common with the rest of the United States the terrible exactions of the protective system to enrich the privileged classes.

Will the workingmen accept that generous tender and vote with the monopoly party under coercion of the employer?

ON A DULL DAY.

SCENES IN WALL STREET WHEN BUSINESS IS STAGNANT.

A Light Ripple of Interest—At the Pie and Sandwich Counter—Richest Woman in America—Initiating a New Comer. After Business Hours.

Things are dead as a door nail on the stock market. The clerks and messenger boys who come and go from the Exchange travel at a walk, and the doors that slam behind them give exit to none of the noises native to a busy day on the floor. A few late break-fasters are playing knife and fork at Delmonico's, and not a broker among them. They are, to a man, lawyers, whose trade thrives when all others are dull. The scattered loungers against the railings and telegraph poles of New street are talking of the opening of the baseball game, and the couple of brazen voiced curbstone brokers with privileges to sell shout their seductive propositions forth in vain. A hopeless looking man leads a melancholy dog up and down, as if he expects a purchaser to drop from the skies. Both man and dog look hungry.

A reporter from some news agency goes by at a run, and an intimate among the idlers hails him:

"Hey, Jack! who's busted?"

"Blodge," shouts the reporter, as he vanishes under the Stock Exchange, to make a short cut by the basement into Broad street.

This starts a little ripple of interest. Blodge gone up, eh? Well, any one might have expected it. There isn't a dollar in the bucket shop business any more. A man is an infernal fool who plays a cent in them.

A whistle blast, announcing that it is 12 o'clock, brings a stream of brokers out of the Stock Exchange doors, and for the time being makes the street lively enough. Delmonico's fills up, but the biggest crowd is at the end where the ten cent pie and sandwich counter is. Only two bottles of champagne are visible along the whole row of tables, and a deep seated melancholy has possession of the shaven waiters.

"How are things, Auguste?" asks a giddy young scion of an old banking house, who is investing some of the paternal cash in a feast that makes older men, who have to work for their money, open their eyes. "Slow, eh?"

"Ah, sure!" thus Auguste, with his shoulders to his ears and his hands out, palms upward; "on a bear market, sure, so vaillare he starve."

Dodging out of one of the nests of offices on Broad street comes an elderly woman in a shabby gown, with a hand sachel bulging to bursting clutched in her ungloved hand. A foxy faced man, with a green baize bag to identify his trade by, trots beside her, listening submissively to her observations, and a hush of awe falls on the street during her passage. Among the whispered fragments of comment that follow them you may catch a few, such as:

"Betsy Brown."

"Richest woman in America."

"Bet you the bears she's got a million in that grip sack."

"Heard she's gone in for J. P. S. Consolidated."

Two or three men who have a few quarters left hurry off to the nearest bucket shop to buy J. P. S. Consolidated for a rise, because Betsy Brown is said to have gone in for it.

Later, the members discover a new comer. He is a smartly dressed young fellow, who has lately bought a seat, and who has been hured on the floor for the first time by the appearance of the theatrical visitors. His new associates hail him with much effusion. One grasps his hand warmly.

"My dear boy," he says, "so glad to see you here, upon my word, I am."

He compresses the new member's hand in a grip that makes him squirm, while another conspirator snatches the new member's new white hat off and tosses it into the air. In a flash the whole exchange is in an uproar. The hat bounds and rebounds in the air like a ball, never getting lower than the line of heads. A circle forms around the astonished new member and commences a weird and barbaric dance, accompanied by a chant that would do credit to a band of Apache Indians on the war path. The new member, who had till now forgotten all about the hazing that the exchange practices, makes an attempt to break the circle and reach the door, and becomes lost in a tangle of stockbrokers who rend the welkin with the most unearthly and inhuman cries. The visitors are in an ecstasy and applaud wildly. When the new member finally bolts out at a back door, with his spring suit in ribbons, he is followed by a howl that must be audible in Jersey.

A truck loaded with sacks of silver dollars, like bags of meal, jolts away from the sub-treasury, and breaks down a dozen yards off. This gives the unemployed mob something to look at, while the driver and a couple of volunteer assistants stack the treasure up along the curbstone, to await the arrival of another truck.

By ten minutes past 3 the exchange is locked up, New street is empty, and Broad street nearly so. The bar tenders commence to wash up their glasses for the day, and the waiters gather in the corners of the restaurants, and compare their returns with darkening brows; in the brokers' offices the charwomen begin to sweep out, and in the beer saloons the men with dogs, and shoestrings, and playing cards, and what not else to sell, industriously work the free lunch counter, and talk as solemnly of the dreadful dullness as if they were personally interested in the millions that have not changed hands.

The brokers are going up town a-foot and on wheels, but mostly a-foot. They do it for exercise, they say. It is a peculiarity of Wall street that a bear market is always amazingly provocative of athleticism among the brokers, while luxury and a desire for ease and repose come in as invariably when the bulls have the field to themselves.—Alfred Trumble in The Argonaut.

Beating Carpets in Paris.

American housewives engrossed in the cares of house cleaning, may thank their stars they do not live in Paris. The conseil de Salubrite of that city has recently discovered the inconvenience of allowing carpets to be brushed and beaten in the open air in the vicinity of inhabited houses on account of the dust which is so raised, and especially on account of the bacteria which may be set free when the carpets come from houses where syphilitic diseases have existed. The conseil has, therefore, decided that this operation will be allowed only under the following conditions: The carpets must be brushed and beaten in entirely shut up rooms, and the dust deposited on the floor will be washed with water containing some disinfectant of potent action; strips of wool etc., will be burned immediately.—Chicago News.

THE PILOT'S WIFE.

"The moon shines out, with here and there a star,
 But furious cloud ranks storm both stars and moon;
 The mad sea drums upon the harbor bar,
 Will the tide slacken soon?
 O, sea, that took'st my youngest, wilt thou spare?"

—And the sea answered through the black night air,
 "I took thy youngest. Shall I spare to-night?"

"The thundering breakers sweep and slash the sands;
 To westward, lo! one line of cream white foam;
 I raise to darkling heaven my helpless hands;
 I watch within the home.

O, sea, that took'st my eldest, wilt thou spare?"
 —And the sea answered as from out a grave,
 "I slew thine eldest son for my delight."

"The giant waves plunge o'er the shingly beach;
 The tawny maned great lions of the sea
 With pitiless roar howl down all human speech.
 Is God far off from me?"

O, sea, that slewest my sons, mine husband spare!"

The sea's wild laughter shook and rent the air;
 Lo! on the beach a drown'd face deadly white.
 —George Barlow in Belgravia.

Better Be Getting Away.

I would strongly advise every German in the United States who has any idea of assisting his friends or relations from Fatherland, to perfect his arrangements and get them out here at once. I say this because one of the first things the new emperor is likely to do in pursuance of his policy will be to prevent emigration by all the means in his despotic power. He is for war, and will want them to do his fighting—not alone the high born dandies but the hard handed soldiers from the plow and the work bench. The emperor is wild for the grandest game in life; he longs to hear the earth quiver with the thunder of the guns—yes, even to hear the bullets singing in his ears, though that is a pleasure not often enjoyed by men in his high station. His ancestors won fame; he, with his lame left hand, must have like glory, and he must have men who will sacrifice their lives in slaughter so that he may ride under the Linden in triumph.

Therefore, friends and fellow citizens, you who have fathers, brothers, sons and friends who are liable to carry a gun, not for water-land, but for the glorification of Wilhelm the Second, look lively, before the ports are closed and emigration to this land of peace, freedom and plenty becomes a crime by order of the emperor.—Once a Week.

Growing by Electric Light.

It is said that trees planted under the electric light increase in size much more rapidly than those set out under ordinary circumstances. It is finely illustrated in Fairfield just at present, where at a street corner stands a little tree that was set out there last spring. It grew fairly well last season without the electric light, but this season, under its effulgent rays, it has stretched out with great rapidity, far outstripping all its fellows at the same time.

The explanation of this unusual growth, given by the scientist on the opposite side of the street, is that the tree grows both day and night, the electric light taking the place of the sun at night. Under all the circumstances this would seem a very plausible explanation, and if it is true the electric light will come into general use in hot houses and other places where it is desirable to force vegetation.—Fairfield Journal.

How to Eat a Cucumber.

"Cool as a cucumber," says an exchange, is scientifically correct. An investigation in England showed this vegetable to have a temperature one degree below that of the surrounding atmosphere. "Cucumbers," says that genial judge of good things, Francis B. Thurber, "seldom disagree with the stomach when taken with plenty of pepper and salt, and never when claret is used as a beverage." He says: "I like to take them from the vines in my garden, peel them, slice them down the center nearly to the end, so that the four quarters will open, sprinkle in some pepper and salt, and, pressing the quarters together, eat them as I would an apple. Any cucumber thus obtained from the vines in the cool of the morning is delicious, but those having many spines or prickles I have usually found to be the crispest and best."—Medical Classics.

Carences of the Surf.

To me the ocean is at once the most fascinating and the most horrible sight in the world—this incoming of each smiling blue, white crested wave, that, almost with a purr, creeps up to you and seems to absorb you in its greatness, or else makes you wonderfully conscious of your extreme littleness.

The feline type as represented by a great, beautiful tiger, or this wonderful sea that seizes you with a caress and drags you to destruction in a whirl of its kisses, is so intensely feminine! I think that is the reason that men are passionately fond of it; women decidedly afraid. The one rushes in not knowing the duplicity of the eternal feminine as shown by the ocean. The other, knowing her kind, bawares of it. It is the old story of fools rushing in where angels fear to tread.—"Bab" in New York Star.

Two "Items of Interest."

There is an able romancer out west somewhere who is keeping the east supplied with excellent "items of interest." Here are a couple of them: "Lightning played a queer caper on a ranch near Buffalo, W. T., recently. It struck a barb wire fence and for a distance of 400 yards melted the barbs without injuring the strands, and pulled one end of the staples holding the wires to the posts. The extracted ends were neatly turned into corkscrews and nickel plated." "Jim Blevins, living near White Creek, Tex., killed a very large chicken snake a few days ago and noticing the snake's body was unusually large and ill shaped made an incision and found it to contain a large cow horn and in the horn a prairie rat. It is supposed that the snake chased the rat into the horn, and to secure the rat swallowed the horn."—New York Sun.

An Increase in "Artist Authors."

It is surprising to note what an increase there has been within the last fifteen years in that class known as "artist authors." Thirty-five years ago T. Addison Richards, and the late David H. Strother ("Porte Crayon"), almost held a monopoly in that field. Today we have a veritable army of men doing similar work. W. Hamilton Gibson, Howard Pyle, Allen C. Redwood and Rufus F. Zogbaum are, perhaps, best known, but there is a host of others, especially on the comic papers and the daily press, who, while turning out fair work as artists, can write you a neat story or article, or produce any amount of jingling rhymes. Oliver Herford, Harrington, Michael A. Wolf, W. H. McDougall are a few of those whose work is most frequently seen.—"B. B." in The Epoch.

ATTACKED THE WRONG MAN.

Jim Berry Assaults Ham Turner and Receives Injuries that will Probably Prove Fatal.

Jim Berry received injuries yesterday afternoon at the hands of Ham Turner that will probably prove fatal. They are negroes and have been employed by Mr. John Collins, of Mill Creek. They were sent to this city yesterday with some wheat. After unloading, they reloaded their wagons with coal, and left for home about noon. Berry had loaded himself with mean whisky, and as is usual with him, he soon become very quarrelsome. He raked up an old grudge with Turner and began abusing him and threatening to take his life. When near Brod's blacksmith shop on the Fleming pike, Berry left his team and started at Turner with a knife, or some other weapon. Messrs. D. C. Frazee and Geo.
 Adamson happened along at the time and interrupted the fuss. Turner preceeded on his way. A short time afterwards Berry unhitched his team and started in pursuit renewing his threat that he intended to kill Turner. About a mile further out the pike he overtook Turner and started towards him with one hand on his pistol pocket and reiterating his threats. Turner dismounted and dealt Berry a terrible blow on the head with a large club as he approached.
 Turner had warned Berry away and was exasperated beyond endurance. He pushed his assailant over the head until the latter fell to the ground in an insensible condition. He then resumed his trip. Dr. Phillips was summoned to the scene shortly afterwards and dressed the wounded man's injuries.

Berry was brought to this city. He was some better this morning, but his condition is still very serious.

Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's Minstrels.

E. F. Hendley, business manager of Goodyear, Cook & Dillon's refined minstrels, was here recently arranging for the appearance of this company at Washington Opera House next Saturday night.
 Mr. Hendley assures us that his show is one of the strongest minstrel organizations on the road, and that in points of refinement they excel all others. He says the management thoroughly understands and appreciates the meaning of the word refined, and nothing is said from the stage that would cause a minister to take the slightest offense. The musical features are said to be especially strong. Ellsworth Cook, tenor, and the "Bay State sextette," including W. S.
 Pollard, the great basso, are with the company and will be thoroughly appreciated. Polly and Vander do some wonderful feats of contortion. The Leech brothers, the wizards of the banjo, Carlyle,
 the monarch of the high wire, Thorne,
 the Egyptian juggler, the Dillons, song and dance artists, and Goodyear, Edwards and Stiles will keep the audience in a good humor and send them home delighted with the show. The orchestra is pronounced as fine a lot of musicians
 as money and experience could combine.
 Watch for the band parade at noon Saturday and see the most unique parade ever given by a minstrel show.

 tickets at Chenoweth's.

WILLIE BROOKS, a young negro sneak latest novelties in the dry goods and no-these goods will appear in the BULLETIN.

THE track-layers on the new railroad reached Big Locust Creek, six miles below Augusta, several days ago. The false-work of the bridge at that point was washed out by the heavy rains last week, which has caused considerable delay all around.

PETITIONS are being circulated for $1

 ville should subscribe to this laudable move.

As a manipulator of the wires, Mr.
 Will Gibson, assistant operator at the Western Union Telegraph office, is a hustler. He sent 13,526 words away last week about the fair and races, and the work was mostly done in a few hours' time after the close of the fair each evening.

ATTENTION is called to the advertise-

ACCIDENTS AND CRIMES.

THE POLICE OF NEW YORK CAPTURE AN EXTENSIVE FORGER.

Kidnapers Foiled at Chicago—A Worthless Check Worked on a St. Paul Cattle Firm.
Attempted Assassination in Chicago—A Falling Derrick Kills Two Men.

New York, Aug. 28.—William F. Clark, alias Colt, the forger, was arrested by the police. He has been operating very extensively in this city for some time past. His forgeries will aggregate about $10,000, and his victims were large business firms. His plan was to call with forged letters of introduction from business friends of his intended victim, pretending to be in the trade and wishing to make extended purchases. Having secured their confidence, he would up by paying for his goods with a check on the Fifth Avenue bank, and bearing the certification sometimes for more than $1,000, large enough always to leave a considerable margin beyond the amount of his purchase, which he received in cash.

Kidnapers Foiled.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Lawrence Hutchings, two years and eight months of age, was kidnaped from Evanston Sunday afternoon, but fortunately rescued at the Northwestern depot when the train reached Chicago. When the little fellow was taken off the train he attracted the notice of the police by his cries and frightened actions, and was taken to the waiting room. He told his name and said he was pushed upon the train by two men. A well dressed man came to the waiting room to claim the boy, but he had such a suspicious manner that the police concluded to hold the boy until given some evidence of ownership. The man disappeared and the child was taken to the Des-Plaines street station. It was later delivered to its father.

An Old Game, but It Worked.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 28.—A man calling himself E. S. Burns, and representing himself to be a lawyer for Savage & Green, of South Omaha, Neb., bought 138 steers from Cunningham & Haas, of St. Paul. Burns presented a draft on Savage & Green for $3,374.20 in payment for the steers. He then disappeared and sold the steers, realizing a nice sum by the transaction, though he could afford to sell them for a loss, as the draft which he gave proved to be absolutely worthless. Savage & Green disclaim having any such man in their employ, and know nothing of the transaction. It is supposed that Burns returned to Omaha.

Life in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Joseph Dradznski, living on Thirty-second street, stepped out Sunday night to close a coal house door. Just as he reached the door a man appeared from the interior and fired five shots at him. In rapid succession. One shot took effect in the right arm and one in the right shoulder. The third hit him in the leg, and fourth in the neck. The wounded man could give no description of his assailant and knows no cause for the shooting.

Death in an Awful Shape.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 28.—Thomas Leech, a switchman in the Jeffersonville, Madison & Indianapolis railroad yards, was killed Sunday evening under peculiar circumstances. His foot caught in a frog, and he was thrown to an approaching locomotive to stop. The engineer reversed his engine, but too late, and the man was cut in two.

Brothers Accidentally Killed.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., Aug. 28.—While a flat car was being raised to the track on the Michigan Central railroad Sunday afternoon, the derrick used for the purpose fell over into a crowd of sightseers. Two brothers named Collier were instantly killed and several others were injured. Some of the latter will die.

A Juvenile Murderer Captured.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Aug. 28.—Marshal Cunningham Saturday night returned from Indianapolis with Oliver White, wanted for murder, and lodged him in jail here. White shot and killed William Ellsworth four weeks ago. White is about sixteen years old and says he acted in self-defense.

Accident to a Hardware Clerk.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 28.—Charles A. Doran, clerk in the hardware store of S. A. Munger & Co., was struck on the head by a box of hinges falling down a hatchway. His skull was fractured and he will die.

A BATTLE RAGING.

Five Hundred Land Grant Settlers Fighting a Sheriff's Posse.

TRINIDAD, Col., Aug. 28.—What may prove long and bloody struggle has begun in the Maxwell grant at Stonewall, forty miles west of Trinidad. The sheriff's posse sent to keep the peace was met by armed settlers in number estimated at two to five hundred men. The settlers demanded the arms of the posse and were refused. The posse then took up quarters in the Fuller hotel, a large frame building. The settlers endeavored to force an entrance, when the posse opened fire. E. D. Russell, one of the oldest settlers fell dead, and two or three others settlers were wounded. The building was soon riddled with balls. The eye-witness who gave the information left while the conflict was still going on. The citizens are greatly excited. The sheriff is gathering men in numbers to go to the relief of the besieged posse. It is believed that the building will be burned and that the dozen besieged deputies will be put to death.

The settlers come from the territories of Purgatoire river, from Vermego, N. M., and also from Costello grant in the mountain fastnesses. It seems useless to oppose them without the militia or regular troops. Public sentiment in Trinidad is entirely with the settlers. The settler's cavalry is composed of both Americans and Mexicans. The Mexicans are painted as if for war.

Up to the present writing no more couriers have arrived from the scene of the war, making it impossible to get any further particulars of the fight. It is rumored that Governor Ross of New Mexico, has ordered out troops to present any trouble in that portion of the Maxwell grant which lies in his territory, where thus far no conflicts have occurred. Just what action the governor of Colorado may take in the matter will depend on what news is received from Stonewall. In the meantime the state militia at this point are securing all available horses to start for the seat of the trouble at a moment's notice.

Further Bloodshed Expected.

DENVER, Col., Aug. 28.—The managers of the Maxwell land grant last night swore out warrants for the arrest of sixteen men, who participated in the troubles at Stonewall, on the charge of riot. Writs of ejectment against a hundred others were also secured, and the United States marshal has left to serve them. It is feared that the serving of these papers will cause another outbreak and perhaps more bloodshed.

THE PRESSURE WAS TOO GREAT.

False Work of the Huntington Bridge at Cincinnati Swept Away—Loss $150,000.
 CINCINNATI, Aug. 28.—At 10 a. m. Sunday the false work of the main span of the Huntington bridge, in process of construction, between the foot of Smith street and the Covington shore, gave way and fell with a loud crash, which could be heard for several miles.

The disaster was brought about by the high river and the immense driftwood which pressed against the structure.

Nine freight cars, three loaded with railroad rails and six with piling, which were placed on the bridge to steady it, were carried down in the wreck.

The trestlework was 550 feet long and 100 feet high. On top of this was what is known as a "traveler," 164 feet high, which was used to take up the iron for the bridge and carry it along.

Superintendent Millikin and General Superintendent R. A. Simmons made every effort to avert the disaster, but in vain. A large pile protector, with two lines of booms formed of coal barges, had been anchored above the span to throw off the driftwood. But the drift got under the barges and massed solidly against the piles. The pressure against the falsework (as the support of the superstructure during construction is called) was too great, and it finally gave way. The traveler fell first and then the trestle parted and fell.

The Alex. Montgomery, Hercules Carrel and several other towboats started after the wreck and the thirty barges which had been swept off. At or near Delhi most of the timber, piling, planks, beams, etc., were recovered. While engaged in saving some of the wreck at Delhi the leg of Harry Doherty, foreman of hoisting on board the Hercules Carrel, was broken above the knee and his body badly wrenched by one of the ropes used in drawing in the wreck snapping and catching him about the body. It is feared his injuries are fatal.

The loss to the Phoenix Bridge company, of Phoenixville, Pa., the contractors is placed at about $155,000.

The construction of the bridge was to have been the quickest on record, and was to have been completed January 15, 1899. Work was begun in March. It was to cost $6,000,000. The work will no doubt be delayed, although Engineer Simmons says if the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway company will stand the increased expense the work may be completed in time.

The Skeleton Captured.

RISEING SUN, Ind., Aug. 28.—The tow boats, Al Martin and Alex. Montgomery, succeeded in landing the skeleton of the Huntington bridge below here Sunday evening, after several hours' hard work. It is badly broken up.

Over a Cliff.

TIFFIN, O., Aug. 28.—A young man named Virts went out driving with his sister along the river bank and the horse ran away and jumped over a thirty-foot cliff, dragging along the vehicle and occupants. The girl was fatally hurt and the young man badly injured.
